"Science tells us that in the embryo the whole human being who will be is becoming, projected in each tiny detail; to this our faith adds that what we have is not some unknown project of nature but a project of the creator's love. St. John the Baptist's mission is entirely traced out before his birth: 'And you, child, will be called prophet of the Most High, for you will go before the Lord to prepare his ways.' The Church holds that John the Baptist was already sanctified in his mother's womb by the presence of Christ. That is why she celebrates the feast of his birth." - Fr. Raniero Cantalamessa (6/22/07)
